

Laurie Hutchinson, C.Dir.

Retired Pension Executive
Toronto, Ontario

Laurie Hutchinson is a retired pension executive. She spent four years as the chief executive officer of the Sponsors Corporation of Ontario Municipal Employees Retirement System (OMERS), one of Canada's largest jointly sponsored defined benefit pension plans. Prior to joining Sponsors Corporation, Laurie spent several years serving as a member of the OMERS Administration Corporation Board and several of its committees, including as chair of its audit and actuarial committee. Laurie is a retired pension actuary who spent her career working with defined benefit pension plans, primarily in the public sector. She has executive leadership experience at two of Ontario's largest pension plans, with a particular focus on plan sustainability, policy and pension governance. Laurie is a founding member of the Master of Trust Management Standards (MTMS) instruction team for the International Foundation of Employee Benefit Plans. She is a graduate of the University of Western Ontario and holds the chartered director designation from The Directors' College.
