Angela Johnson is the CEO and Co-Founder of sanoLiving, a women's health company whose programs reach more than 1,400 Canadian employers and 1.6 million employees and their dependents through partnerships with insurers such as Medavie, Pacific Blue Cross, and Desjardins, as well as third-party administrators, advisors and direct-to-employer relationships.

She brings deep experience as the founder of Medical Confidence and a former IBM leader, helping reshape how women access and receive care. sanoLiving combines AI-supported telemedicine, licensed clinicians and coaching to deliver assessment, diagnosis, prescriptions and navigation to in-person care, along with personalized support across the full spectrum of women's health.

Angela's own journey with complex women's health conditions fuels her mission to help women thrive — and to support organizations in retaining and attracting female talent.
