

Chris Scheiblein, MS, CEAP

Director of the Labor-Management Cooperation Initiative (LMCI)
International Union of Painters Allied Trades (IUPAT)
Hanover, Maryland

Chris Scheiblein began working as an Employee Assistance Professional (EAP) in 2006. In the years to follow, Chris became a Certified Employee Assistance Professional (CEAP), earned a bachelor's degree in Organizational Dynamics (BS) from Chestnut Hill College in Philadelphia, as well as a Master's Degree in Administrative Science (MS) from Fairleigh-Dickinson University in New Jersey, and he is in long-term recovery for more than 23 years himself.

As of June 2022, Chris took on the role of Director, for the Helping Hand Program, as part of the IUPAT. In June 2025, Chris was appointed to be the Director of the Labor-Management Cooperative Initiative (LMCI), within the IUPAT. In this capacity, Chris is tasked with bringing labor and management together as true partners, advance the industries he represents, and collaborate with the union and their signatory contractors in all endeavors.

Prior to his work as an EAP, Chris worked as a member of Local Union #1 Bricklayers and Allied Craftworkers, in PA/DE. Chris also spent a short time working with Ironworkers Local Union #401 in the Philadelphia area.
